WARNING: Repeated or serious breaches may result in a civil penalty, as discussed above (if applicable). According to the law, a child care license may be suspended or revoked if the Child Care Licensing Division (CCLD) concludes that the facility or its operation does not comply with state statutes, or applicable rules, or any terms or conditions imposed under the license. If you fail to comply or if you repeat the violations listed above, your license may be revoked. You must comply with CCLD rules and laws at all times. The CCLD retains information on non-compliance with the rules. If you disagree with the results, you can respond in writing to the CCLD.
